Kyle Rittenhouse has said he does not regret his actions, but is concerned that he will spend the rest of his life in jail; sounds like he knows who James Fields is. No doubt he knows the criminal justice system is anti-White, even if unconsciously. He was posted a two-million dollar bail thanks to Mike Lindell (yes, the My Pillow Guy) and has been released pending trial. Imagine if White dissidents had an organization that could’ve post his bail, instead of some evangelical nut-job. In any other criminal justice system, Kyle would be hailed as a hero for not simply defending himself, but doing what the police would not: defend the neighborhood from leftwing mobs. That said, Kyle is just a kid and is not the state. His naivete is perhaps not his fault. You can’t just take on the role of the state, or the state will crush you. It’s sad but it is the nature of power. He also bought the gun he used with Covid-19 stimulus check he received, which is amusing. Trump would’ve won reelection had to gotten two grand a month to everyone for the duration of this pandemic. But we all know the Republican party doesn’t care about people, only corporations and its donors.
